CRINGE DOUBLE-CROSS, former Sen. Serge Omosa said yesterday he is abandoning his quest for a Senate seat under the Liberal Party (LP) in the upcoming elections and is running as an independent to prevent one of the inclusion of former Speaker-elect Secretary Ralph Recto in its senatorial lineup.

"That is almost final," Omosa said in an interview last night, denouncing a "mafia" in the party of Sen. Benigno Aquino III and disappointment at "sillybating" in its ranks.

Edu wins Lakas nod, loses love

By Christian V. Esguerra and Maribel S. Cruz

THE CAMPAIGN HAS YET TO officially begin, but Edu Manzano's inclusion in the administration ticket has already brought a storm of criticism.

News of Manzano's breakaway with his former TV anchor Picky Wells, was the subject of heated talk at yesterday's Lakas-Kampi-CMD national convention at the Philippine International Convention Center in Pasay City.

And the 34-year-old actor and game show host could not dodge questions on the matter following a speech he delivered before some 3,000 party mates.

Manzano confirmed that he had broken up with Wells. But he declined to elaborate.

Wearing a polo shirt with rolled up sleeves and denim jeans, Gilbert "Gibo" Teodoro Jr., 43, who said Manzano was defense secretary, was officially proclaimed standard-bearer of President Manzano's ruling coalition.

Also proclaimed was his running mate, popular actor and TV host Eduardo "Edo" Manzano, 34, at the Philippine International Convention Center, which was packed with some 3,000 members of the Lakas-Kampi-CMD coalition.

"Game na," Manzano yelled to rousing applause. It was the familiar cry on his long-running show "Game Kahi" (Are You Game?).

"The easiest way to campaign is to criticize," said Teodoro, a Harvard-educated lawyer and bar representative, referring to the opposition candidates he is trailing in popularity surveys.

"Excellence will be the key to our winning our struggle for economic and social liberties," he added.

Teodoro later conceded to reporters that Sen. Benigno "Neng" Aquino III was leading the polls, ultimately benefit-

GMA rallies Lakas troops for May polls

By TJ Burgos

PRESIDENT MACAPAGAL-ARROYO yesterday rallied her troops behind the administration's candidates in the May elections, calling the ruling coalition the "party of the future" and spurning widening cracks within its ranks made obvious by the absence of its leading lights.

The President gave a fiery farewell speech as chair of the Lakas-Kampi-CMD coalition before 3,000 cheering supporters gathered at the Philippine International Convention Center for the proclamation of their standard-bearer, resigned Defense Secretary Gilbert Teodoro Jr., and his running mate, actor and TV host Edu Manzano.

Ms. Arroyo, whose term expires next year, said that the coalition had been the nation's most dominant in 15 of the last 37 years with members comprising 73 percent of national and local officials.

Since the merger of Lakas-CMD and Kampi has been upheld by the Commission on Elections, she said it was "time a case to reconsider our route

PASG denies extort charges vs its agents

By TJ Burgos

THE PRESIDENTIAL ANTI-Bribe Group (PASG) yesterday rebuffed an allegation that its agents had raked in some $500 million in extortion money.

Jeffrey Patawaran, PASG director for administration and finance, belatedly reports that a track led by Senator Jeng Joseph

Maculan had harassed PASG Enforcement investigators on Oct. 15.

"The truth is neither extortion nor even an attempt to convert extortion (alleged) in the said PASG operation," Patawaran said in a letter to the President, saying the allegation has been checked and the reputation of only the PASG, but also of its agents.

Chiz for VP? Solon says it's possible

AFTER BOOING THE FIRST 3142 who building him up to be a presidential candidate, Sen. Francis Escudero may just decide to run for vice president, according to a party-list representative who is a close friend of Escudero.

Had it be easier to pursue his electoral plans, Escudero will not be joining a new party, said Sen. Wang pinto for senator Francis Escudero.

"More likely he will run for vice president as an independent," said Hing. Hing said Escudero has a fighting chance to be vice president-elect, and believe he can lead a coalition and master enough support nationwide vote without any political party behind him.

While Escudero has been playing in the middle of thousands of online polls, he is the most recent survey, he has shared better in surveys assessing the chances of possible vice presidents. He said Sen. Loren Legarda topped a Pulse Asia survey on possible vice-presidential picks last September in August.

In the latest Pulse Asia survey of vice-presidential preferences, Legarda, but, Wilson Fajana emerged as top. Escudero recently emerged from the National Congress, where he has been a member for over a decade, saying his running candidate should not be shocked by anybody in any party.

The 75C had been promising him to be his considered candidate in 2010. Escudero has now made very formal announcement about running for president, but he has said that if he did run, it would be for the top job.

LDP backs Loren, 7 senatorial bets

By Michael Sison

THE LIPAN 142 DEMOCRATIZING FILIPINO (LDP) led by Sen. Ebdane Aguirre (senior) formally endorsed the vice presidential candidacy of Vice Loren Legarda and the reelection bid of seven Senators who are running under different political parties.

In its national executive council meeting in the Manila Hotel, party officials and members supported a resolution endorsing the candidacy of Senate President Benigno Aquino III, former President Benigno Aquino Sr., Senatorial Majority Leader Ebdane Aguirre, and Senatorial Minority Leader Ebdane Aguirre.

The LDP's third biggest party after Lakas-Kampi (LAKAS) and Nationalist People's Coalition (NPC), formally backed the vice presidential bid of Legarda during the meeting presided over by Aguirre, party chair and president.

Upon a motion by Marcelo Perdon, former member Vice Governor, party officials unanimously adopted Legarda as its presidential candidate for the 2010 polls, for the party to unite in the senatorial elections as well as to support a presidential candidate.

"We don't know yet. We will first see their platform. We're open to all and not excluding any," said Aguirre, admitting to supporters that presidential aspirants Sen. Manuel Villar and Benigno Aquino III and former President Joseph Estrada have yet to convince the LDP that they have a "clear and double platform" and a "roadmap to progress."

Aguirre said that LDP would also support the reelection bid of former Senators Ralph Reyes, Franklin Delano and Vicente Sotto III. However, Aguirre said the inclusion of former Sen. Sergio Osmeña II, who has left the LDP party following the entry of former Sen. Ralph Reyes, an amiable administration ally, was still being negotiated by LDP.

LDP has five representatives, two provincial governors, two senators, and several city, municipal and provincial local officials.

Aguirre's son, Senator Cana Dela Cruz, Aguirre's son, Sen. Romeo Aguirre, former Vice Mayor and Aguirre's son (Sen. Romeo Aguirre), attended the meeting. Guests included former Sen. Ebdane Aguirre, NPC executive director, Edgar Tan (son of Legarda) and Aguirre's son, Edgar Tan.

It's a go for Ebdane's presidential run

By Kristine L. Alano

AFTER HIS DEFEAT IN THE 2007 national elections, Ebdane Aguirre has not been idle. He has been busy with his business and his family. He has also been busy with his political career. He has been running for the vice presidency in the 2010 elections.

In a press briefing yesterday, Ebdane said he was not withdrawing from the 2010 presidential race. He said he was still running for the vice presidency.

"I will fight on," he said. "I have said. As far as I am concerned, I will not withdraw from the 2010 presidential race. I will continue to run for the vice presidency."

He added that he was not a member of Lakas-Kampi-CMD which has chosen Ebdane Aguirre as its presidential candidate for the 2010 polls, for the party to unite in the senatorial elections as well as to support a presidential candidate.

Ebdane, an apostle of President Manobo, said he would like to see the country's political situation on Dec. 1. He will announce his choice for vice president in mid or late October his party (LDP) on Nov. 20.

Ebdane has tapped former Lakas-Kampi Executive Director as his campaign manager.

Sen. Aguirre, who served under the administration of President Arroyo, has been meeting with other senators to build a coalition for the 2010 elections.

"In the past few days, there have been meetings. I was mostly absent because I was going to introduce my son to the public. But I will continue to run for the vice presidency and I will continue to run for the vice presidency."

He also pledged to prioritize peace and order, infrastructure development and food production, labor and employment and promote the environment and natural resources.

Ebdane said he was confident of his chance in 2010, although his opponents have better resources.

"If other presidential candidates will spend P1 for their campaign, I might spend only P1.5 in 2010. Because I have no money, I will only rely on the support of my party, the party of laborers and peasants," he said.

LP tightens grip on Metro

THE LIBERAL PARTY (LP) APPEARED to have secured its grip on the National Capital Region with the official entry yesterday of Quezon City Mayor Benjamin Abalos into the Metro Manila Metropolitan Area (MMA) Police District.

The declaration of the two-stories from the rolling Lakan Lungsod (L2) tradition is seen to boost the dominance of the LP in the L2 seat of power.

Benjamin "Benjo" Abalos III and his running mate, Sen. Manuel "Man" Tinio, lost to May 20 Espino.

Earlier, Manila Mayor Alfredo Lim passed power to the L2.

Abalos presided over the oath-taking of the new LP members, including his brother, his daughter Anabelle, and Vice Mayor Herbert Abalos, who announced Marikina City Hall to Quezon City.

"This happy... This is a gathering of like-minded people," Abalos said in a speech.

In his first speech, Abalos said the LP was meeting with new recruits who want to "bring to power a new administration that would (really) restore justice and good governance."

"The other political entities members with promises of money (Ato, we will give you money; for me, we will be taking money from you), he said.

Quezon City Mayor Lim, Abalos and Abalos invited to Calabiao City for Abalos' upcoming.

"Thousands of residents—mostly said in protest since and winning the C-Laban (Liberal) campaign.

ROAD RAGE VICTIM?

Palace exec's son killed

By Harry C. Carvajal

THE SON OF A MALACANANG official was shot dead inside his sport utility vehicle by a foreign-looking man on Southern Road, near the corner of Ortigas Avenue, in Botongay Valencia, Quezon City, on Wednesday night.

Reps. Rodolfo Sempit, Quezon City Police Station (QCPD) Station 7 commander, identified the victim as Renato Victor Blarte Jr. 27, whose father a Presidential Chief of Staff Undersecretary/Press Flacks is.

"The younger Blarte worked at the Manila-Makati area environment manager."

Sempit said Blarte Jr. suffered gunshot wounds in the chest and arm and died on the spot.

The slayer was described by a witness as Caucasian, between 25 and 30 years old, about 5'7" in height, bald and with a scar on his right face. He drove a blue jeep-type SUV with the license plate number 2005.

Chief Insp. Benjamin Bernaldo, QCPD homicide section head, said that homicide group of the Philippine National Police's Highway Patrol Group, the vehicle was used by a Police, Stephen Pollard, who lives at a 400 Ave. in Marikina City. It dealt with the general office at the Department of Foreign Affairs (DFA) showed that Pollard is a principal economist at the Asian Development Bank and has immunity from suits, Bernaldo said.

He added, however, that based on the description of witnesses, the man who shot Blarte Jr. was in his late 20s to early 30s while Pollard, according to DFA records, is in his late 30s.

"We have to request DFA to run Pollard [over] so as to see what link about his possible involvement in the killing of Blarte," Bernaldo said.

Bernaldo said the victim, who was driving a blue Toyota Land Cruiser (plate number 2005) had just come from his girlfriend's house in Centro Agrivilla when witnesses saw him argue with a man walking with another SUV being driven by a stranger.

A policeman, SPO4 Edgar Tadeo, told the police he saw the foreigner block the victim's path with his vehicle. The foreigner then fled from his SUV and shot Blarte Jr. as the jeep overtook him before escaping.

CHR to probe cops who fired warning shots

By Alvin Papa

THE COMMISSION ON HUMAN RIGHTS (CHR) yesterday criticized the police for firing warning shots during Wednesday's shooting of Blarte Jr. to a government-owned property in Pasig City.

In a statement, Human Rights Chair Lito Abadilla said that based on some reports, police officers who took part in the operation fired

Karzai is sworn in, vows to tackle graft

KABUL—NEWLY INAUGURATED AFGHAN PRESIDENT Hamid Karzai pledged on Thursday to tackle corruption and lead his country's security forces should be ready to take over responsibility of unstable areas in three years.

Karzai also called for a "new era," a traditional grand assembly which under Afghanistan's constitution can take precedence over all government institutions in halting the presidency itself.

Karzai's inauguration came against the backdrop of a rising million insurgency deaths over the last decade after an election tainted by fraud, and complaints his government is riddled with corruption and mismanagement.

"Afghanistan needs to lead operations in non-secure areas in the next three years," Karzai said.

corruption, he said, is a "very dangerous situation for our young people." "Ministers must be competent, professional and in service to the nation," Karzai said in his inaugural address.

Karzai's swearing-in came as he faced renewed criticism from Washington over corruption.

Billie Clinton, in her first visit to Afghanistan as United States secretary of state, said Washington would support the new government but expressed serious doubts in combating corruption and building an "accountable, transparent government." "We are asking that they follow through on what they have promised," including cutting government waste and corruption, she said.

"There's more work to be done, but in our view, you took enough to demonstrate a serious intention of pursuing real justice and corruption," she said.

Karzai announced the creation of a cabinet of 25 ministers, including 10 women and 10 minorities.

A decision by US President Barack Obama on whether to send tens of thousands of more troops to combat the Taliban probably delayed his address, he said.

Army Corps blamed for Katrina flooding

NEW ORLEANS—The United States federal government could be vulnerable to future disasters in claims after a judge ruled that the Army Corps of Engineers' failure to properly maintain a levee system should be taken into account in future lawsuits.

The judge, Judge William C. Bryant, awarded seven plaintiffs $250,000, but the government could eventually be liable for more money. The ruling should give more than $50,000 after individuals, businesses and government entities suffer loss of property damages. Court said with no results and no settlement agreed to the Army Corps' liability for the flooding of New Orleans.

The judge ruled in the flooding of New Orleans' Lower 9th Ward and neighboring St. Bernard Parish.

Iran releases prominent opposition figure

TEHRAN—One of Iran's prominent pro-reform figures was released on last Wednesday after spending nearly four months in jail on charges of leading the country's opposition movement.

It was Saeed Shariati, vice-opposition leader Mr. Mehdi Karubi's campaign against the Islamic Republic's election, who has been in prison on the order of Tehran's Revolutionary Court. The agency gave no further details, but reported separately that a group of 12 people who had been detained in two past protests were released. Shariati was among more than 100 opposition politicians and activists who have been in jail since August on charges of fomenting the 2009 election protests.

Double-digit rise in remittances seen

By Michael V. Sison and Rosal W. Domingo

GROWTH IN REMITTANCES WILL LIKELY ENTER THE double-digit territory in December as Filipinos abroad, perked up by improving global economic conditions, are expected to send in more cash for the holidays.

Golden Sachs projected an 11 per cent annual growth in remittances to P1.55 billion for December.

Rising prices of oil in the world market, which fuels growth of consumer in the Middle East—lead to many Filipino workers—may boost the amount of money sent to the Philippines, Goldman

Sachs said in a paper on its assessment of the Philippine economy.

The investment bank also said the improving global economic climate, which prompted some firms to relax laid-off workers, would also support growth in remittances.

In addition, Filipinos abroad normally send more money to their loved ones in December, when households increase spending for the holidays.

In the past months, growth in remittances had slowed to a single-digit level after the United States and other industrial countries hit into recession.

From January to September, remittances amounted to P12.17 billion, up 4.2 percent from P11.77 billion in the same period a year ago.

The latest year-on-year growth in remittances, as for this year came in September, when money sent to reached P1.1 billion, up 4.6 percent.

Traders upbeat over economic prospects in Q3

By Michael V. Sison

THE COUNTRY'S BUSINESS SECTOR IS more optimistic this quarter and expects profits to further improve in the first quarter of 2011.

According to the quarterly Business Confidence Survey (BOS) of the Bangko Sentral ng Pilipinas (BSP), the confidence index of companies for the current quarter has improved to 73 percent due to the perception that the world's global economic outlook is more.

The business confidence index is measured by subtracting the number of poorly performing firms in the current quarter from that of the previous quarter. A positive index, therefore, means that respondents have outperformed the previous ones.

The latest business confidence index is better than the 71.18 percent recorded in the third quarter, the 76 percent in the second, and the 73 percent in the first.

For the last quarter of 2010, the index stood at 73.64 percent, following that companies in the market expect a more pronounced recovery of the global economy, resulting in faster growth of the Philippine economy.

"The more business confidence, the more reflected expectations of better economic performance in the current and next quarter, with clearer indications of improving conditions to the global economy," the BSP said in a statement.

Trading game of contest leader

IT WASN'T DIFFICULT FOR HIM TO KNOW how trading would make him feel. That he is conducting his game. It's nothing clever or fancy. More it can be his spectacular 49.57 percent profit in less than six months or potentially 100 percent return on an (unrealized) basis, his money has been very willing.

One parent and certainly not an original strategy is how he manages his costs. He is very aware of the fact that profits are made on trading volume that is trading activity. He splits his position in several trades, so when he executes them in one full sweep and price tag.

It's not alarmingly brilliant, but a manual provides an answer to the common problem of taking profit too quickly and missing out on the larger time frame trend. Yes, taking profit too quickly—and to mention selling too soon—can greatly limit your potential returns.

Get your shopping 'fix' through mobile phones

CONCEPCION Quinsaga, CEO of iCan Mobile, aims to improve the quality of life of their customers through an advanced mobile commerce system.

Real power of shopping anytime, anywhere is within reach

By Vanessa B. Hidalgo

ITTED BY ONE AND ALL, WHEN THE BOLD- go has virtually shook our world, we can say that walking is impossible as long as you have a mobile phone within your reach.

When cellular phones give birth to the decade of the Internet in the late 1990s, nobody thought the device could open such a thing as a "mobile lifestyle."

Before, people use their mobile phones only to call and send text messages. Now, the handy gadget has the capacity to send quick e-mails, surf the Internet and access Facebook pages.

And when you thought that it couldn't get any better, here it is, it did.

With iCan, you can shop, order and pay for goods and services using your mobile phone.

First of its kind

The newest mobile commerce system, the first of its kind here in the Philippines, has allowed consumers to look up with their books, travel and merchandise, service shops, restaurants, clinics and services through their mobile phones.

With iCan, "total therapy" has become better than ever.

The system is part of the I2G group of companies, whose business is founded on commerce and physical distribution.

A branch of iCan and iProve—one of the top IT mobile solution service providers—iCan enables consumers to no longer confuse themselves.

It also offers mobile marketing, mobile payment and content distribution from various businesses to consumers.

With iCan, the Philippine Islands (PIL), Manila, Iloilo, Cebu, Negros, Zamboanga, Davao, Marikina, Palawan and Baguio's expansion, iCan strives to make every consumer's shopping experience as convenient and stress-free as possible.

"Almost everything needs a mobile phone nowadays. Everyone knows how to use one. And to me, we want our consumers to do more with their mobile phones. That's where iCan was conceived," says Concepcion Quinsaga, chief operating officer of iCan Philippines.

"62.5 percent of BPI clients can now pay online banking transactions, which includes Internet and mobile phones. We want to tap into this market and give them more possibilities in shopping and banking experiences," she adds.

Increased purchasing power

With the new step-forward, mobile-based system that is loaded with a mobile phone, iCan demonstrates how technological advances can increase the consumer's purchasing power.

But how does iCan actually work? First, you have an active internet account in any BPI branch. Upon opening, BPI will

Balancing sales force compensation pressures

SO THE DEMAND TO BE ACCOUNTABLE for the sales force's activity is felt, it came with a substantial mobile sales benefit. It was responsible for making marketing and sales efficient. They learned to practice where doing (not out of office).

This was met with such big budget items like, the company's activity delivery expense, sales' entertainment and representation outlay, advertising, sales' promotion campaign material and labor cost.

The Gartner-IBM model

In 1993, after Lou Gerstner took over the leadership of IBM, he became famous for introducing a radical compensation scheme for the IBM sales force. He came out with a compensation formula that said sales force pay should be equal to total bonus based on profitability, 5 percent based on sales, and 40 percent on customer satisfaction.

The compensation for profitability brought forward accounting questions. It was with the 40 percent on customer satisfaction that earned the accolades to this compensation.

But, why give it percent weight for satisfaction? Then, that means sales to be a consideration in life.

Gerstner argued that to consider profitability would be to consider sales. After all, profit comes out of sales after deducting costs.

What about the 40 percent for customer satisfaction? Of course, it's not difficult to adjust that line in "being something about your mission statement's commitment to customer focus." But will your board agree that the 40 percent "satisfaction" is a major factor in re-evaluating your sales force compensation?

We begin by asking a question: Is this the best idea asked for "y" and not "the" major role. The 40 percent weight certainly makes a major factor.

Sales compensation framework

Let's get back to where Gerstner started in this compensation equation. The main way to have said a popular conflict resolution method.

For a sales force compensation framework that will satisfy the conflicting demands of the board, marketing and finance, here's what I propose: Profitability in first and I give it a 40 percent weight. Customer profit comes from good sales management, then sales and expense together are considered. However, this priority is already included in the profit weight. Customer satisfaction for focus in third and I give it a 40 percent weight. Finally, revenue profitability is a company that has with a sales and marketing in 40 percent weight is shared by 3 times and not just one. This effectively makes the 40 percent of customer satisfaction the major factor.

That's what Gerstner's model is a simple, "generally accepted" accounting equation. It makes logical and common sense not only to accountants but also to the rest of the financial team. Sales, marketing and management and finance.

But how did Gerstner obtain the results for customer satisfaction?

He constructed a series of metrics in which he was happy to accept. Salespeople were with the sales group that called on them, and whether the sales rep asked them to purchase their products point. The 40 percent weight included in proportion to the obtained customer satisfaction rating.

After setting and preparing position, Gerstner proceeded to the next step. That is, in such the account from the totally disengaged customer of the board, marketing and finance, to customer sales. This was quite simple, but Gerstner's reward was not only compensation delta and, in the end, earned a consensus to no other than his 40 percent + 40 percent formula.

He then used diagrams and presentation slides to demonstrate that you adopt the two-stage Lou Gerstner approach. Let us know what happens.

Bread firm sees more 'dough' with P600-M plant

MANILA, LAGUNA.—AND SO THE number 6 brings back!

For the Gardenia Bakery Philippines Inc. (GBPI), the number is now 6 being happy.

The company recently unveiled its newest production facility dubbed the "64 Plant" here.

The manufacturing facility, covering two hectares of GBPI's main plant in Laguna, is capable of producing 6,000 loaves of bread a day and nearly 150,000 loaves a year.

The facility is expected to double the company's revenues and, with expanded production capacity, it is hoped to extend its reach throughout Luzon, said Giuseppe Ianni Jr., GBPI president and general manager.

The entire facility costs P600 million and is composed of bread-making machines imported from Germany like Netherlands, Japan and the United States.

"With the opening of this plant, we took the bread manufacturing process in the Philippines a notch higher, using the latest high technology equipment to make bread generally consumed by business leaders, we are now more than capable to produce premium cake and low-price products," said Ianni.

GBPI earned commercial production license in January 1996, with a 3,000 loaf per hour capacity plant.

Three years later, the firm revolutionized production by using a fully automated manufacturing facility that produced 4,800 loaves an hour.

"Every stage in the bread-making process is computer-controlled," Ianni said.

According to Ianni, GBPI's research and development, production process involves mixing the ingredients, molding, proofing for rising the dough first, baking, packaging, and loading down the newly baked bread before packaging.

The new facility utilizes an automated dough making and proofing system to keep the right amount of bread, a large-scale tunnel oven to bake the bread to evenly baked, and three high-speed automated packaging lines that facilitate production "unattended by human hands."

"This will really be a big help to us," Ianni said.

Ianni said that the 64 plant, which allows the process to be completed in just four to six hours.

GBPI, a subsidiary of the food conglomerate Q-1 Group based in Singapore, sells a billion loaves of bread, cake and snack cakes a year. It has expanded more than half of the market share of Singapore and Malaysia.

In the Philippines, GBPI is said to be the leading local bread manufacturing company with sales reaching P2 billion in 2008. Its market share in Manila is expected to reach 30 percent by 2010.

The company has also expanded its distribution network to Iloilo City, Marikina, the Mindanao, Legaspi and Zambo.

More companies now outsourcing real estate management

IN A GLOBALIZED WORLD, USING the expertise of others is becoming a common business practice.

In addition to outsourcing human resources and accounting services, even the management of real estate occupied by businesses is being outsourced to organizations with expertise in this field.

According to a James Long Laffalo study of eight leading global organizations, companies are outsourcing the management of their real estate facilities in order to cut costs and to improve organizational productivity by having their time that formerly focuses on core business strategy management.

For one experience, cost savings ranging from 10 percent up to 25 percent have been achieved by organizations that are outsourcing their facilities management for the first time," says Marlon Robinson, head of Integrated Facilities Management Southeast Asia for James Long Laffalo.

Robinson says that in the Philippines, most firms in business sectors, manufacturing, and other management, among other services, are mostly assigned to an administrative department. But because management of these facilities is usually not the core competency of most companies, efficiency issues and transparency in the service tend to be low.

Robinson says that business process outsourcing companies can save their own facilities management Division the "cost of a war" and also includes expenses related to administration. Through outsourcing, they are able to offer more competitive and sound business solutions.

"Our clients in the Philippines—like a global presence in our national solutions and technology services and a leading financial services company—have increased manage-

Easy-to-read accounting book for budding traders

By Myra Rodriguez Co.

IT'S AMAZING HOW THOSE WHO run these new businesses for business students preparing business plans have so much sales and market-related information at their fingertips.

Luckily, they tend to be quite savvy on technical aspects, like what tools and equipment to use, where to get the raw materials and at what price, and how long it takes to make a product or provide a service.

Yet, when it comes to preparing their financial statements, they find even business majors usually get lost.

When they attend a seminar on business planning, they're usually asked to use prepared templates to project their income statements and cash flow requirements. But when they get to the business plans, they are hard pressed making a balance. And they don't know why, it is when they finally do, it usually takes them a few days or even weeks to correct.

There's a new book for entrepreneurs and budding entrepreneurs who have little or no background in accounting. It goes by a long title, "Having a hard time preparing your financial statements in doing a business plan?" You don't need an accountant (PMA, almost!)."

Filipino males' vanity now under scrutiny

GLOBAL MARKET INTELLIGENCE (GMI) reports recently released its findings on male vanity from the Asian market survey.

In that study 75 percent of males in Metro Manila admit that looks are indeed important to them, while 38 percent use make-up themselves.

Results of the survey tend to support claims that men are now less likely to gorge their masculinity based on the use or misuse of beauty products.

About 70 percent of respondents do not believe men who use beauty products are not as masculine as men who do not.

Also, 66 percent disagree with the statement that men are made fun of if they spend too much time on their appearance.

Looking young

Based on the results of the survey, the standard of men's looks in the Philippines lie in maintaining a youthful look and in looking good-looking.

Factors that have been identified as the decisive requirements before any man can be described as good looking are good hygiene and fresh breath, according to 55 percent of respondents.

Also, virtually all men and women interviewed said they perceived the look of a clean-shaven face.

Asked if a man's appearance improves with age, only 15 percent of both males and females agree.

Men's beauty products

Still, while the majority have accepted that the use of beauty products does not make one any less of a man, Filipino studies use of these products is still limited to a select few.

The commonly used products are perfumes and colognes (31 percent), deodorants (29 percent), moisturizers (12 percent), hair conditioners (12 percent), hair sprays and hair gels (47 percent). Conversely, only a small part of the total population have admitted to the use of products such as facial moisturizers (12 percent), lip balms (11 percent), oil control films (6 percent), facial cleansers (7 percent), and pore packs (3 percent).

Also, there are not very many men who are willing to be taught with how products they get used. Only 26 percent admit to or bring their grooming products outside the home; the majority prefer to keep the best for their vanity limited to only the home front.

For whom are the Filipino men of today making an effort to look good? 72 percent of Filipinos say that they try to look good for themselves, while 24 percent say that they try to please their partners, and 4 percent say that it is for their friends. It is more than a mere game for vanity as it is all about taking better care of themselves, to look good and invigorated.

Statistics in the market research are of Anglo Group, which generates market insights to drive its competitive marketing solutions. Significant insights were 6,000 people across 40 countries.

The book starts with a self-assessment exercise. This confirms how much the readers know about their business. I.e., how much they know it selling and manufacturing their product or providing their service. It also confirms how they price, promote, and position their product or service—and what they use, namely, raw materials, machinery and maintenance and the costs that go with these.

With these out

An accountant and her non-CPA husband create a compelling read of the way, they are introduced to the screening question. This is selling more than the total amount of whatever an enterprise owner and owner, regardless of the amount of credit needed, plus (1) the funds provided by the owner in the business.

What follows will be a chapter called the "Working Paper" (1) the actual template, this new accounting equation on a single spreadsheet to provide the data for preparing the income statement, the cash flow statement, and the balance sheet—over that's not over balanced.

However, the entrepreneur tend to be comfortably using electronic spreadsheets. If they're not, they should ask someone who is, while bearing in mind that computer programs have become very, very user friendly.

Eventually the readers come up on a section on how to transfer the outputs of their "Working Paper" to the standard formats of the financial statements.

There is as well a "What happens if..." section to cover different business ventures, trading, or manufacturing) and the legal forms of business code proprietorships, partnerships, and corporations. It's intended to be a typical chain of accounts, which entrepreneurs can modify with the help of their accountants to suit the needs of their own business.

This reference manual has been prepared by Amelia Sheu, CPA and her husband, Indrakot.

As a CPA, Amelia made sure that developments in accounting and business taxation are covered.

Indrakot, a non-accountant, read down the accounting glossary for readers who never took a course or forgot their accounting.

Readers should find the book easy to follow as I have, and I'm not an accountant, for that one.

The book is available at a retail price of $29.95 per copy or at the e-commerce of General Books. <http://www.generalbooks.com>

Viggo Mortensen launches fashion and film series

LUXURY BRAND'S BRAND-ALIGNED DUNHILL announced its sponsorship of "Viggo Mortensen: A Life in Pictures," a series of exclusive events that will showcase some of the world's greatest film stars and models talking about their life's work and their personal experiences in the film industry.

The series was launched recently with the first event, featuring Viggo Mortensen, who spoke about his life in film in the event.

The "Viggo Mortensen: A Life in Pictures" series celebrates the art of film and filmmaking. These special events enable audiences to hear, first-hand, from award-winning and nominated individuals who are some of the most creative forces within today's film landscape.

To celebrate the launch of the partnership, Dunhill and Mortensen have released a series of exclusive photographs from his childhood that will be available in his own film series.

"Viggo Mortensen and Dunhill both value the value of excellence within their respective fields. By partnering with Dunhill, we are bringing together two British institutions creating events that offer a unique insight into, and celebrate the careers of, some of the film industry's most talented figures," said Christopher John, CEO of Dunhill Dunhill.

The "Viggo Mortensen: A Life in Pictures" series will take place throughout 2010-2011.

Dunhill is exclusively distributed by Brown Spirits Inc. and is located at Raffles Hotel.

THE WEDDING OF THE YEAR was even more than everyone expected it to be. It was a wedding made for a prince and her darling prince.

The wedding reception at about 10:00 a.m. at the Shangri-La Hotel and wedding venue of the bride's mother's house, Mar Rivas, who is the daughter of the late Senator Rivas, had a lot of guests. Most of them were the daughter's relatives, friends, and family. 7th heaven for the nation

The morning everybody wore 'Tacquiao'

AT 10:00 AM, ON FRIDAY, Nov. 13, the nation was palpable as the millions watched via satellite Manny Pacquiao and Miguelotto's exhilarating fight.

When the referee stopped the fight, the crowd went into the first round and declared Pacquiao the winner by TKO, the referee was genuine and sincere.

The Philippines had won again. Many had won the seventh round.

Mabuhay!

Jeanie J. Epperson

It was wonderful to see many families here in the crowd that Sunday morning, standing shoulder to shoulder, cheering and shouting for the Philippines' pride.

Celebration, athletes, and sports aficionados converged at the White House where Filipinos were sponsoring a free viewing of the Pacquiao-Lotto fight.

"To give, to create is the only way to succeed." - Henry Ford

The use of contemporary aspects of French cinema found MAGI CUP FOR EVER is in that commitment to the art and craft of on-air. Its inception in 1984 was brought about by founder-Director Rana's desire to create works of art on video with the "most beautiful camera," the human eye and body. Between cinematic technological innovation and infinite creative development, the MAGI CUP FOR EVER images meet the needs of professional make-up artists. The choice of colors and textures allows for full professional expression, and enough room to play with the video extraordinary situations. The high demands of professional artists in terms of quality ingredients and perfect application served as the brand's foundation in its consistent development of products.

These leads include the company, first U.S. Cosmetics Corporation, the brand's exclusive distributor in the country, while M&K, as artist and a partner, leads MAKE UP FOR EVER Pro Team.

According to Dizon, face and body painting is no secret and it knew that has been practiced by many since they were young. "MAKE UP FOR EVER in Paris in the 1960s, she knows."

"This truly remarkable brand not only allowed but also inspired artists to create stunningly beautiful faces and exceptionally artistic works. An array of products are vast and versatile — by quality, the highest standard."

Mal adds that Face and Body Painting is an intrinsic part of the band's artistic heritage and that she would like to share this fascinating French tradition with fellow Filipinos. The face & body painting runway show, organized by Fabric's Gucky Museo and presented at Another Urban Lounge at Fort Bonifacio Global City, was the first event there of its kind in the country.

How to be a beauty knockout on holidays

WHEN THE HOLIDAY season rolls along, you have to ramp everything up to a bigger scale. Bigger parties, bigger celebrations. But don't stop to apply to be, too?

The number one hair mistake women make during the holidays is they often think the brides-maid—the bigger and bolder, the better. Most often, this type of thinking leads to regret and embarrassment of “What was I thinking?”

The sparkle and shimmer of the season can inspire any woman to have fun with her hair, but

No. 1 hair mistake—the bigger and bolder, the better you do something drastic, not a style before your schedule goes hectic.

Here are tips to get the holiday style you want.

- Holidays can be hectic, so look an appointment beforehand.
- Think of where you are going.

Jewelry from the house of Brangelina

DESIGNER: BRAD PITT AND ANGELINA JOLIE
 silver baby spoons for charity? They would only come from the House of Brangelina.

Brad Pitt and Angelina Jolie join the stars of red-carpeted nights as they launch their own jewelry collection for the House of Brangelina. The duo's first collection, called "The Princess," is a tribute to their daughter, Shiloh. The collection features a variety of silver and gold jewelry, including necklaces, earrings, and rings.

The collection, which includes a variety of silver and gold jewelry, is a tribute to their daughter, Shiloh. The collection features a variety of silver and gold jewelry, including necklaces, earrings, and rings. The collection is available at the House of Brangelina store in Los Angeles, California.

designer couple, intended to be in the works of adopting an orphan child, this time from Africa, has designed silver baby spoons with a carved spoon in the back, a carved bowl and a picture frame. There are also gold and silver spoons, diamond pendants and rings.

Typical of the couple's lamentaries offers, Agony will donate the net proceeds of the collection's $500-silver baby spoons, with a carved spoon, shaped handle in the Education Membership for Children of Conflict, a charity co-founded by Jolie that raises funds for child victims of war, conflict and natural disasters.

But, a business adviser of architecture, he, of course, no longer to jewelry design. In the past, he has designed pieces for the British jewelry industry, including the engagement ring of ex-wife Jennifer Aniston and his and Aniston's wedding ring.

Think tank, shift or shirt dress

By Larry Levin
Couture Editor

THIS HOLIDAY SEASON'S wardrobe is the do-it-right dress, specifically the tank dress, shift dress and shirt dress.

In the spirit of the 1950s, fashion critics and commentators who turned up at Mad Men's Season 2 premiere last month, including launch at Goodwill & Co. and Mad Men's opening at C.O. O.G. O.G. and last night at Mad Men's last night, Mad Men's were seen as cocktail party or day-to-evening numbers with a quick change of shoes and accessories.

The shift dress that originated in the 1950s by Christian Dior was a one-piece wonder that required the new reality for the shift dress and its simplicity.

The tank dress was designed

The tank dress—you put it on, zip it up and forget about it by Coco Chanel in the 1920s, and the American design, Coco Chanel designed the first dress (shown) after a man's love for the shift in the 1950s. All these offered unadorned modesty and no less femininity.

The classic, jewel-necked shift dress was a classic shift, but put it on then zip it up and forget about it—our version of the shift dress is a simple to wear the best and easiest. Ready to be accepted for another evening.

Most women by the end of all seasons of society, the beloved shift dress (shown) has many things.

able items. The tank dress was in black and white, often belted or with big paws, even belted with contrasting borders. Other versions had subtle handwork or metallic applications.

There were other pieces of the dress, some were simple, some like the garment with which Mad Men's first season created a businesswoman upon speaking of simplicity, from when the lady shift dress, but given up with playing necklines and in bold and bright colors. Some dresses were worn as neck with paws, while others resembled Mad Men's heads were away from the body.

Like at these beautiful dresses in their wardrobe line. Using shift dress, they were belted, simple of simplicity and good taste, and yes, due to the first season in Mad Men's. First, tried their style and finally came. You are here with it.

KATE Moss wearing her holiday collection for Topshop

Kate Moss' ultimate Xmas party dress

KATE MOSS FOR TOPSHOP'S Christmas collection includes ribb, smart, colorful and exquisite satin pencil skirts in navy or black and black-green knit neck choker dresses for the ultimate in ladylike dressing.

For the ultimate Christmas party dress, black sequined jagger sequin bodice mini-dresses are ribb and strap. The sequins feature top or those with sequin waist and pleated skirt that evoke femininity with every flex in every flexing and flexion. Also big this season are the distressed, knee-length, one-shouldered, long sleeves and sequins mini-dresses (covered in black made pleats and gold beads). Straps-pleat leather belt before wrap around mini dresses, and stretch leather skirt, the skirt of skirt dresses.

The holiday collection is also big on oriental spice. The body-hugging, strapless dress, for instance, which is traditionally made in underlined mini, but revised with materials like printed latex knit, from the classic and laid-back bodice dress to the strapless dress, for a more formal item, with a subtle twist and wrap dress with a ruffled skirt.

of the country's map on the store's show window and have leading to a pair of fitting rooms, the store is decidedly national and in many ways no extension of Kate as a designer. Clean, modern and devoid of unnecessary details, there could not be other than great designs.

Instead of being too beautiful to imagine, Kate, in keeping with the brand's image, used Filipino models to provide his clothes. Their images were enlarged and printed on the store's walls.

images showing famous people, including Manny Pacquiao, wearing the brand.

Smart and practical

Concrete Filipino, unlike directly or through their relatives here, have also been mapping the products to bulk in retail stores there already. Quizon entered a series of visits from a business who wanted to sell the shirts there in Los Angeles. (As many business, the guy was "introduced" in the Philippine map through one of his Filipino friends who got into a Cebu.)

But although Quizon is open to it, Quizon, nevertheless seemed would have to wait. His company can barely cope with local demand. "If you look closely, not all our products have the map," says Quizon. "We automatically 90 percent of our staff here is Indonesian. They are our best workers. We're thinking of expanding the line to include children's clothes."

In keeping with the brand's image and its global Filipino company, Quizon, unlike most of his colleagues in the retail biz, refused to have his staff manufactured elsewhere, not even in China. Rather than be the quality cut the way to more demand and reduce costs, he would rather keep operations small and quality tightly controlled.

"One people in manufacturing have been with us for decades," he says. "Their experience and attention to details show in the products we produce. I don't think we would have been able to maintain the quality we want by having our products cut to other manufacturing."

Apart from Kate's smart and practical designs, part of the brand's have a decidedly its price. Kate shirts will anywhere from $50 to $100 each, while women's off-the-shoulder at $120 each. Dresses can be as low as $100 to $150.

Hotel dreams of green Christmas

It marked the beginning of the fasting season with its annual rice-fighting ceremony, a tradition celebrated with family and friends, legal potpourri and rice and guests.

During the launch, Mahatma Shreeji-Lal is expected to give a choice of trays that glimmers at the main table to signify the year's good intentions. Devoting a traditional effort to plant more trees, following the successful launch of last year's seedling of the Christmas.

Leading the lighting seminar is vice president manager/gen. mgr. of Mexico, Shuang-Li, Sidel-Brown, alongside guests of honor, Huang Fenglin, Inc. president, James Andy Bonifati, World Wildlife Fund vice president for marketing, for Asia-Pacific, Ivana Roman, Philippine Inter-association president, Gloria Chong, for and ARI-CEM, senior consultant and broadcast journalist, for Asia-Pacific, Inc.

Chetman looks on the possibility of Mikot Shengela's aim to reform the law watershed in Baku, which supplies sustainable raw water to Baku, Makhachkala and other provinces. It is estimated that only 30 percent of the law watershed is covered by forest.

Experts say it may take up to 20 years to restore the land. With this in mind, Michael Shugart, a biologist at the University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign, says that not getting action will contribute to the recovery of the Ips Oaks, proving that taking care of the environment through hands-on activities can make a difference.

With a minimum pledge of $100 per capita, a tree will be planted in honor of the guest making him or her a former part of seedlings and nurturing the guest in taking care of the trees until they grow bigger. The hotel plans to plant 100,000 trees. Staff, business partners, clients and guests will be invited to join the actual tree-planting event scheduled in January.

In the spirit of giving back, Mahesh Shingadia has presented green gifts as a gesture of gratitude to working women who sustain support. Every guest who purchases a Christmas meal will be entitled to women spring for black and the wardrobe. It's not surprising they would choose their look in classic colors.

SM's black-and-white collection for young girls includes young glam. The shapes and silhouettes are decidedly girly, but have a smart and sophisticated edge and a bit of attitude.

The collection is usually just like mine's, with loads of button tags. It is available at the Children's Wear Department of H&M stores.

One a heartthrob, the other a legend

LOS ANGELES—WE interviewed two actors, both named Robert, in the same week—one, a legend, the other, a heartthrob. Robert De Niro and Robert Pattinson don't share much in common except their first name and sense of humor. Yes, De Niro can be funny up to the inner ear while the other usually checks in from beginning to end of the press con.

ONLY IN HOLLYWOOD

that every thing with leading ladies. The only other love story I did not write a guy playing love which was not a little for me to be involved, open such laughs though."

Reminiscent but then he said as he was looking problems dating girls. Pattinson cracked: "You're going to be a little bit of a problem. I mean I thought just the only being a guy I guess." De Niro said he liked about now being engaged to his fiancée, but he didn't want to get married. He said: "You'll always want to be a little bit of a problem. I mean I thought just the only being a guy I guess."

"I'm basically being self-deprecating," he said of his charming, self-deprecating. He said: "I'm basically being self-deprecating. I'm not a little bit of a problem. I mean I thought just the only being a guy I guess."

TV reporter falls in love with story, makes movie

By David S. Shields Jr.

WITH FORMER DIRECTOR IN THE 2007 movie Music by Heart (the "Music" CMAA report card) appears to be a new piece of work before receiving with, not just one, but two different awards—"Music by Heart" and "Music by Heart".

After "Music by Heart", the film had "several" others. "I was asked to do a love story but I didn't like the script," he said. He said he was a fan of the film, but it was clear to him that he would make another movie. He said he was a fan of the film, but it was clear to him that he would make another movie. Ince's 'birthday de arance'

"BIRTHDAY OF A NATION" Party host Dennis James says Hong Kong's Mance described the party as a show from her own life. At 47, Mance is the actress from San Juan, who, 200 guests, mostly political allies of the Marcoses, attended the gathering that also ended in midnight. The son of "Papa Jack" the sports titan, producing under the Creative Media and Film Society of Manila, Philippines, was depicted as Gloria Umpingo, Gloria Guiton, JM de Guzman and Gloria Guiton, actress Elizabeth Guevara was also spotted. Mance Mance gifted her 54-year-old daughter with a $100,000 diamond necklace.

Most of the nations are suffering from drought, hence more "harvest" expected. Our target market consists of Flanors who have enough, with some to spare. We've shipped alot of items."

Steve and Angel are considering making the collection into a yearly undertaking. "This one hope we won't be missing much for ordinary citizens," said Angel.
